RECENT NEWS

Cities are becoming increasingly connected, digital and data-driven. This transformation creates a growing need for professionals who can effectively manage urban data and turn it into knowledge that supports better decisions.

CDOA - Academia for Smart City Chief Data Officers responds to this challenge by developing an innovative educational programme designed to prepare current and future professionals for data-driven urban transformation.

Who is CDOA for?

CDOA addresses a diverse group of stakeholders involved in shaping the future of cities:

- 🎓 Students and future professionals interested in smart cities, data management and digital transformation
- 🏢 City representatives and public administration professionals involved in data-driven urban development
- 📊 Smart city, data and digital transformation experts
- 🎓 Higher education institutions, academics and educators responsible for developing future-oriented learning programmes
- 🤝 Other organisations and stakeholders involved in urban innovation, digitalisation and sustainable city development

Future cities starts now

Why Smart City Chief Data Officers?

The challenge is not only to collect this data, but to manage it responsibly and transform it into knowledge that supports better urban decisions.

This creates a need for professionals who can connect:

DATA → TECHNOLOGY →
GOVERNANCE → PEOPLE → BETTER
URBAN DECISIONS

Meet the CDOA Partnership

CDOA brings together an international consortium combining complementary expertise in higher education, research, smart city development, innovation, digital transformation and stakeholder engagement. By working across countries and sectors, the partnership ensures that the solutions can respond to the diverse challenges faced by European cities.

This is only the beginning!
